SUBJECT: FY 1990 Research and Development Initiatives

1. The Directorate of Science and Technology, which is revising its research and development (R&D) planning cycle, is presently considering new initiatives for their FY 90 R&D Program. The Office of Research and Development (ORD) has requested an informal session to discuss two proposed initiatives of possible interest to our Directorate, one on automated training and another on text handling. ORD will also welcome suggestions for other initiatives at this session, which we have scheduled for 25 November at 1400 in 7D32, Headquarters.

2. Please advise [REDACTED] of the name of your representatives to this session. We hope this informal approach will eliminate a lot of the unproductive paper exercises of the past. Keep in mind that the DDA's priorities in the R&D arena include computer security, [REDACTED] He has also emphasized the need to focus R&D efforts five years out and beyond.
